

Haemochromatosis Expert Advisor Wanted!

UK NEQAS for H&I are currently looking for an expert advisor to join our Steering Committee.

We welcome expressions of interest for an exciting opportunity to help shape the current and future application of EQA.

Steering Committee members advise the Service Director on aspects such as:

- ▷ Appropriateness of investigations surveyed
- ▷ Number and frequency of distributions
- ▷ Data analysis, performance assessment and presentation
- ▷ R&D for the Service
- ▷ Initiation or termination of EQA schemes
- ▷ Comments on any remarks or appeals by participants
- ▷ Comments on results and performance
- ▷ Provide confidential advice to participants
- ▷ Responding to feedback
- ▷ Contributing to the annual participants' meeting
- ▷ Cases for the clinical scenario scheme

Applicants should have extensive experience of clinical haemochromatosis, reporting and keep up-to-date knowledge with best practice guidelines. The successful individual will work alongside two other haemochromatosis expert advisors to create hereditary haemochromatosis clinical scenarios, review and score clinical reports from participants for assessment of Scheme 5B.

Members of the UK NEQAS for H&I Steering Committee sit as members in their own right and not as representatives of professional bodies or their employers.

The tenure for the role is 3 years.
